From Les Rousses take the path along the tunnels to reach Lake Tseuzier. Not all tunnels are preventable and there are ladders on the end. Walk along the lake of Tseuzier towards Lourantze. Follow lake Ténéhé, col des Eaux Froides and hut Audannes. The altitude difference is important until Lake Ténéhé. 200 meters before Lake Ténéhé the path branches off to the northwest towards the Col des Eaux Froides and Les Audannes hut. The route crosses an area of « Lapiaz ». There are some indications (red and white, pickets and cairns) but you have to be very careful not to leave the route to the Col des Eaux Froides. From the pass, join the hut of Les Audannes and to join the starting point to follow Les Rousses by the Combe des Andins.

Practical information

Lake Ténéhé is a perfect place for a picnic. The crossing of the « Lapiaz » requires some attention not to get lost. The descent from the hut of Les Audannes by the Combe des Andins requires a secure foot. During this descent it is possible to follow the path of the Chemin de la Conduite which follows the northern foothills of the Pointe d'Héremence, spectacular crossing but not recommended for people subject to vertigo (this route variant is often closed). From the Audannes hut it is also possible to go through La Selle and Pas de Maimbré (easier route than the Combe des Andins, but longer). For this route option from Pas de Maimbré follow Les Rousses. In summer, Les Rousses and Lake Tseuzier is served by a postal bus service.
