Turtmannhutt

Itinerary

After reaching the parking lot at the bottom of the Turtmann-tal, follow the forest road on the left bank towards the Turtmannsee. Bypass the first lake by the left bank and cross the dyke of the second lake to reach the right bank of the valley. Follow Turtmannhuetten, bypassing the last rocky outcrop under the hut to the right to reach altitude point 2431. Then, follow north to reach the hut. After a break during which you can admire the surrounding peaks, continue in a southerly direction to altitude point 2316 and follow the path on the right bank which overlooks the lakes and the valley to altitude point 2342. Descend towards Holusteil (altitude point 2210) and continue descending through a beautiful larch forest to reach the starting point.

Useful information

In the summer season it is a very busy region. The car park at the start of the hike is chargeable and may be full from 11 a.m. in the morning. The Turtmannhuetten is the starting point to reach the Barrhorn which has the distinction of being the highest hiking route in Switzerland (T4)
